Dual studies in business informatics

Description

IT simply comes naturally to you! You are a technology enthusiast. Your family and friends always ask you for advice when they want to update their PC systems, set up their smartphones, or want to know how to fly a drone.

Mid-sized companies often find it difficult to manage their IT, decide which technologies make sense in the future or make specific adaptations to create a customized IT solution for their company on their own. That is why we established abass. abass is a partner that provides companies with help and advice.

We currently serve about 400 customers with 3,500 servers and 17,000 workstations. A long-established, dynamic IT company, we offer a broad range of exciting projects where you can use your know-how to help companies within the framework of your integrated degree program.

Solving problems in your team and for your customers should be something that you enjoy doing. Show your initiative and submit your application!
